

PLEASE JOIN US!

Operational Environment
SME Talk

Connecting Knowledge to Practice

The Decline of ISIS Media: Trajectory and Implications

Charlie Winter

7 December 2017

1100 CST (1200 EST)

GCKN Adobe Connect Meeting Room

<https://connect.apan.org/smetalk/>

(If you do not have an account, please sign in as 'guest' using your full first and last name.)

Charlie Winter studies terrorism and insurgency, with a focus on online and offline strategic communication. He is pursuing a PhD in War Studies at King's College London, examining how propaganda articulates meaning and, more broadly, exploring how militant groups cultivate creative approaches to governance and war. Alongside his work at ICSR, he is an Associate Fellow at the International Centre for Counter-Terrorism in the Hague.

Winter's work has been published by, among others, Critical Studies in Media Communication, Studies in Conflict and Terrorism, Philosophia, the CTC Sentinel, The Atlantic, War On The Rocks, Jihadology and the BBC. He holds an undergraduate degree in Arabic from the University of Edinburgh and an MA in Middle East and Mediterranean Studies from King's College London.

